There are few better ways to explore New York City than by bus: The city is pretty massive - even if you're only in Manhattan - so walking can be creepy with all the traffic, and the subway can attract a dirty look or two from the locals if you don't know the appropriate etiquette. In addition, bus tours are great for all ages and levels of mobility. But knowing where to start in this vibrant, vibrant city can be Challenge: After all, the tour is in a bid for pretty much all interest - and anyone, from Gossip Girl (RIP) fanatics to classic movie lovers to those who never pass the opportunity to see how it is done in the new brewery. And that doesn't even take into account all the neighborhood of the city, each with its own vibe and diverse cultures. We've done hard work to narrow down the infinitely many viewing options to the best bus views New York City offers, whether you're looking to indulge in the best food in Brooklyn or just take in the sights on a very well-air conditioned bus. Learn more about our choices - and get excited for your next trip to the Big Apple. 01 out of 08 The first introduction of many people to New York City is through movies that have been shot here well since the film was invented. What better to guide you through some of the settings of the most popular American movies than a bus tour organized by Turner Classic Movies? At the iconic Times Square, you'll take a three-hour tour of the bus that will eventually take you to 60 movie locations, from the building where John Lennon once lived on the west side of town (also featured in Rosemary's Baby and Hannah and Her Sisters) to the even meticulous underground slot of Marilyn Monroe, who was icing on The Seven-Year-Old Itary. When you go between locations, you'll see movie clips to put your sights and settings in context. Even if you don't love movies, it's still a great way to get to some of the city's most memorable locations - and use the footage to see how much the city has changed over the years. 02 of 08 On a hot New York summer day or a cold winter, it's best to skip the brave elements and opt instead for comfort (hey, after all, you're on vacation). The luxury trainer does the trick: You'll see all the sights, but in an air-conditioned, extremely comfortable environment. We love this tour, which spans a comprehensive five hours and throws in a harbour cruise, which is a great way to get into the city coast as well as the Statue of Liberty, from a different perspective. This tour starts with embarking on the most luxurious luxury trainer, where your licensed tour guide will introduce you. Along the way, there'll be plenty of time to stop for photooperatives - you won't see everything out the window if you don't want to - including Rockefeller Center, Grand Central, Wall Street, 9/11 Memorial and more. After four hours it's time to cruise: You'll board a comfortable ship for an hour to get to New York Harbor with water to remember the day. 03 of New York City's 08 craft beer scene is popping, and hitting the best of the best on a four-and-a-half hour bus tour is one of the best ways you can think of seeing (those who have been on tour agree, too). During your half-day departure, you'll explore breweries in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens. From the historic Old Brewer Which was once known as the capital of brewing in America in the brooklyn brewery icon, you'll hit up three big points, each different in vibes and offerings, for tasting beer - and indulge in craft food pairings with your beer in Williamsburg. In the meantime, you'll find out about the differences in brewing styles (German versus American) and the history of the brewer in New York. For those who weren't much outside of Manhattan - or for them, their first visit - it's also a great introduction to NYC's other boroughs. 04 out of 08 If this is your first trip to the Big Apple, it's worth finding a great all-around tour to get an idea of the city's history and putting the land while ticking off all the important must-see checkboxes. We like this bus tour because it doesn't stick to manhattan's standard attractions: Instead, in five hours, you'll be whisked around the island - cover a tone of the earth in half a day and learn a tone from a large live commentary along the way. You'll start at the New York Sheraton before you see Harlem, Lincoln Center, the Dakota Building where John Lennon lived, some iconic museums, and then it's time to travel downtown. You will stop in front of the Flatiron building, then in the city centre through Bleeker, Soho and Little Italy, before stretching your legs with a guided walk to nearby Chinatown. Even on the road? Iconic bridges of Manhattan and Brooklyn, Wall Street and Battery Park before we pass the World Trade Center, Meatpacking District and Chelsea Market (lunch will be here, though not included in the price of the tour). While you can choose to exit the tour in Battery Park or in the Meatpacking district, there is an official end at Herald Square near the Empire State Building and Macy's flagship store - and close to any transit you may need to continue with the rest of the day. Continue to 5 out of 8 below. 05 out of 08 Those looking to go slightly further than normal Manhattan tourist attractions - or those dedicated to food - should surely take this excellent tour, allowing hungry tourists to sample the best of this trendy borough. For 4.5 hours, you'll take the bus to sample some of New York's classic delights, from kielbasa and pierogies in Greenpoint, home to Polish heritage, to delicious creations such as napolitical pizza style and cannoli courtesy of Williamsburg's deep Italian roots. While stretching your legs in Brooklyn Bridge Park, you'll be able to walk from the Manhattan contour across the river. Finally you'll get a sweet something for dessert from the Jacques Torres chocolate factory, which is known far and wide after the candy. Not everything to eat, though: you learn a tone about the history and cultures that shaped Brooklyn - and New York City's - food scene, making it a great tour even for history lovers. 06 out of 08 New York City is after all a city that never sleeps, so why not catch it A night tour of the city? The city then has a completely different atmosphere, with signs of a neon shop and illuminated sights that cast the city with a magical glow. This 4-hour bus tour also includes a little walk - you'll head to the beautiful High Line Park and walk through Grand Central Terminal, getting to know both while walking. You can return by bus to Lower Manhattan and Midtown, where you'll see bustling areas like SoHo, Washington Square Park, Greenwich Village, Tribeca and other attractions before ending up in Grand Central with great views of the Chrysler building. It's a wonderful way to experience the magical energy that flows through New York at night. Guests say this tour takes them to places where they might not go alone - in the best possible way - and the tour guides are top-notch in their class, with excellent anecdotes, quick answers and friendly personalities. 07 out of 08 Go from Midtown and Lower Manhattan and drive to Harlem, where the rich African-American gospel tradition is still very much alive. This tour will take you on a four-hour tour of this northern neighborhood in Manhattan in the comfort of a bus. You'll learn about the history and culture of Harlem, you'll see famous landmarks in the neighborhood, such as the Apollo Theater, where the apollo theater got its break from singer Michael Jackson, and Sylvia's restaurant with food for the soul, timelessy popular. You'll also visit the Malcolm X Mosque, see the wonderful street art that celebrates African-American culture, and get a lesson in architecture as you walk through St. Peter's, John Divine, a neo-iscian church that is iconic in the community. The real highlight of the tour is a visit to a gospel religious mass in one of the neighbourhoods of churches, which are both beloved and well-visited by locals. In general, the tour is a beautiful, captivating experience, offering an in-depth look at the wonderful piece of tapestry that makes New York City's vibrant culture. 08 of the 08 That Millennials, the privileged world of Gossip Girl and the whole preschool drama that led it, was an obsession paired with O.C. - and this three-hour tour takes you to places and settings of some of the most iconic scenes of the series that have long lasted. You'll step into the shoes of Serena, Blair, Chuck, Dan, Vanessa and Nate as you walk around the city on this (very air-conditioned) bus tour and see more than 30 locations where you're out and about. As you go from place to place, your tour guide - actor or actress - will introduce you to the fun facts about the show, the cast and team, and watch clips from the show showing the sights you'll just see. If you want, make your experience even more special by upgrading to priority seats that offer the best views of the city from the bus. Attractions include the hotel, which played the home of the Van der Woodsen and Bass families, the cinema where Serena got rid of Dane at the time of the date, the Fifth Avenue Blair Waldorf building and the former Henri site. trade that counts Serena and Blair as priority customers.
